

ALLTEL Signs Agreement to Offer DISH Network TV Service; Local Telephone Customers in 15 States Will Get Voice, Video and Broadband Bundle

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. & ENGLEWOOD, Colo.--\(BUSINESS WIRE\)--March 8, 2005--ALLTEL (NYSE:AT) local telephone customers can sign up for EchoStar Communications Corporation's DISH Network satellite TV service through ALLTEL beginning this summer. The TV service will be available to residential telephone customers throughout ALLTEL's 15-state wireline territory as part of a discounted bundle on a single bill provided by ALLTEL.

"Adding TV service to our voice and broadband offering will provide greater value and convenience to our local telephone customers," said John Koch, president of wireline services for ALLTEL.

Customers will contact ALLTEL to order the TV service and schedule installation. The service is expected to be offered to customers later this summer. Specific pricing plans and promotional offers will be announced at that time.

"DISH Network is pleased to make its satellite TV service available to ALLTEL customers as part of a convenient, customer-friendly bundle," said Nolan Daines, executive vice president, Alliance Management at EchoStar. "We believe this package of products and services, all on one bill, will give consumers even greater motivation to switch from the high-priced world of cable."
