

DISH to Debut ESPN Fantasy Football App on Hopper During NFL Opening Weekend

App delivers real-time fantasy stats directly to TV screens

ENGLEWOOD, Colo.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--As the NFL kicks off its 2014 season, DISH is adding an ESPN Fantasy Football app that delivers fantasy stats directly to customers' TV screens. Available on DISH's Hopper® Whole-Home HD DVR this weekend, the new app gives customers the ability to follow their fantasy players' performance, team's weekly matchup and league standings in real time – all while watching live or recorded TV. The app will roll out to DISH customers beginning Friday night.

"Increasingly fans use mobile devices to immerse themselves in fantasy data as they watch live football games," said Jimshade Chaudhari, DISH director of product management. "This app streamlines the NFL football viewing experience by consolidating real-time action and fantasy stats on one screen."

The app's L-shaped layout – with fantasy data displayed on the bottom and right side of the TV screen – automatically resizes the viewing screen to display fantasy league stats without obstructing the live game.

It also features all weekly matchups within a league, bench stats, individual player and defensive team profiles, and NFL teams' in-progress box scores. Moreover, the app is compatible with multiple ESPN fantasy football leagues, ideal for individuals and households with more than one fantasy team.

"DISH is the only pay-TV provider to offer ESPN's fantasy football app," said Chaudhari. "Combined with the Hopper – the most awarded DVR in the industry – this app gives fans the best entertainment platform to experience the NFL this season."

To get started, customers must create a league at es.pn/ffl, then sign in to the app on the Hopper with their ESPN fantasy football username and password. The app is accessible from any channel by clicking the blue button on the DISH remote and selecting the ESPN Fantasy Football icon.
