XL Construction Appoints John Boneso to Executive Vice President

Seventeen-year company veteran to provide broad leadership and strategic guidance while continuing to manage several business units and groups

MILPITAS, Calif., May 19, 2022 – John Boneso, a senior construction industry leader with more than 30 years' experience, has been appointed executive vice president of XL Construction, a purpose-driven Northern California-based organization focused on building to improve lives.

A 17-year XL Construction veteran, Boneso is part of the senior executive team providing broad leadership and strategic guidance for the company. He will provide oversight for all XL Construction project operations business units. Boneso previously served as senior vice president of the company's Science + Technology and Google business units. He also serves on the company's board of directors.

"Since he joined the company in 2005, John has been an instrumental member of our leadership team and has provided significant value in helping grow our organization," said Richard Walker, CEO, XL Construction. "John's track record of success at XL and strong strategic thinking positions him well to help drive consistency in our operations, project execution and employee development in the coming years."

Boneso received his Bachelor of Science in construction management from California Polytechnic State University – San Luis Obispo and is a current member of the International Society for Pharmaceutical Engineering (ISPE).
