Belleville, ILL. (October 28, 2025) — The American Water Charitable Foundation, a philanthropic non-profit organization established by American Water (NYSE: AWK), the largest regulated water and wastewater utility company in the U.S., and Illinois American Water, announced today that the Foundation has awarded $40,400 in grants to 12 eligible public charities and school districts, to fund bottle filling stations through its Hydration Station Grant Program. Funding for new filling stations will enhance sustainable hydration options and reduce single-use plastic waste in communities served

“This contribution goes far beyond convenience—it directly supports the health and well-being of our students by encouraging regular hydration throughout the school day,” said Jeb Blomquist, maintenance director of South Beloit CUSD 320 and grant recipient. “Access to clean, easily refillable water empowers our students to stay focused, energized, and ready to learn. “The Hydration Station Grant Program supports community partners in our mutual goals of making a positive impact on the environment and helping to ensure easy access to safe, clean and reliable drinking water,” said Rebecca Losli, president of Illinois American Water. “Accessible, safe hydration is essential to creating lifelong healthy and environmentally responsible habits.”

“The American Water Charitable Foundation is pleased to partner with organizations that align with Illinois American Water’s focus on sustainable water access, by providing accessible bottle filling stations that make a meaningful impact” said Carrie Williams, President, American Water Charitable Foundation.
