DISH's New 4K Joey Earns CES 2015 Editors' Choice Award

Reviewed.com recognizes DISH for its commitment to improving the TV-viewing experience with its new 4K Joey ENGLEWOOD, Colo.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--At the 2015 International Consumer Electronics Show (CES), the new 4K Joey from DISH Network L.L.C., a subsidiary of DISH Network Corporation (NASDAQ: DISH), received the CES 2015 Editors' Choice award from Reviewed.com, a division of USA TODAY. Reviewed.com is the official Editors' Choice Media Partner for the Consumer Electronics Association (CEA), which is the governing body of CES. DISH's 4K Joey will be the first 4K "Ultra HD" settop box from a pay-TV provider that is compatible with all HDMI 2.0/HDCP 2.2-compliant 4K televisions.

Last year, DISH's Super Joey was awarded a Reviewed.com Editors' Choice award at the 2014 International CES.

"For the second year in a row, we are honored that Reviewed.com has recognized our efforts to improve the customer experience," said Vivek Khemka, DISH senior vice president of product management. "To be the first pay-TV provider that launches a 4K set-top box means that as consumer demand for 4K grows, DISH is prepared with a future-proofed solution that will connect viewers with the Ultra HD content they want to see."

4K Joey was selected by an expert panel of editorial staff from Reviewed.com, a division of USA TODAY. The CES 2015 Editors' Choice awards recognize outstanding innovation, design and value across 13 different product categories: automotive, gaming, headphones, health & fitness, home appliance, home theater, laptops & tablets, parenting tech, photo & video, smart home, smartphones, televisions and wearables. DISH's 4K Joey was one of six recipients in the television category.
