

Antel Communications Taps Feintuch Communications as First Agency of Record

NEW YORK, Nov. 3, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Antel Communications (www.antel.us), a provider of high quality wireless devices and solutions to wireless carriers, has selected Feintuch Communications (www.feintuchcommunications.com) as its first public relations agency.

Founded in 2013 and headquartered in Setauket, New York, Antel Communications is a vertically-integrated organization providing a complete solution to mobile carrier partners in international markets. In its first year of operations, the company has aggressively jumpstarted its business by setting up operations, offices and joint ventures in North America, South America and Africa.

"Antel Communications is a young company with extensive telecom and wireless experience; our senior team enjoys some 20 years average industry experience each and many of whom have been involved in numerous industry breakthroughs," said Louis Antoniou, president and CEO, Antel Communications. "The Feintuch team has a proven track record of working with young, cutting-edge mobile technology companies and impressed us with their knowledge of the industry. We look forward to collaborating and growing Antel Communications' influence in the market."

"From its decades of industry experience, Antel Communications understands the needs of wireless carriers throughout the world. It brings strong industry partnerships, manufacturing know-how and experienced senior management and has already had a significant impact throughout Latin America and Africa," said Henry Feintuch, president of Feintuch Communications. "We will partner closely with company management to educate the global wireless marketplace about its product and service offerings and to assist in generating inquiries and sales leads."
