NCS was identified in Snowflake's latest report as a leader in the measurement and attribution category for helping joint customers in consumer packaged goods (CPG) increase return on advertising spend and incremental sales. By analyzing usage patterns from a pool of approximately 8,100 customers as of April 2023, Snowflake identified 10 technology categories that organizations consider when building their marketing data stacks. The extensive research reflects how customers are adopting solutions from a rapidly changing ecosystem and highlights the convergence of adtech and martech, the increased importance of privacy-enhancing technologies and the heightened focus marketers have on measurement to maximize campaign ROI. The 10 categories include:

- Analytics & Data Capture
- Enrichment
- Identity & Activation
  - Identity & Onboarders
  - Customer Data Activation
  - Advertising Platforms
- Measurement & Attribution
- Integration & Modeling
- Business Intelligence

Focusing on those companies that are active members of the Snowflake Partner Network (or ones with a comparable agreement in place with Snowflake), as well as Snowflake Marketplace providers, the report explores each of these categories that comprise the Modern Marketing Data Stack, highlighting technology partners and their solutions as "leaders" or "ones to watch" within each category. The report also details how current Snowflake customers leverage a number of these partner technologies to enable data-driven marketing strategies and informed business decisions. Snowflake's report provides a concrete overview of the partner solution providers and data providers marketers choose to create their data stacks.

"The Snowflake Data Cloud enables marketing professionals to see the value of operating with the full breadth of their data," said Denise Persson, chief marketing officer at Snowflake.
