Global IT infrastructure services company, based in Cleveland, serves more than 21,500 clients in 180+ countries

NEW YORK and CLEVELAND, Jan. 27, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- Park Place Technologies, a global IT infrastructure services firm based in Cleveland, has tapped Feintuch Communications to support its in-house marketing team and expand its U.S. public relations efforts.

Park Place Technologies has tapped Feintuch Communications to support and expand its U.S. public relations efforts.

Founded in 1991, Park Place Technologies has grown to become one of the world's largest global data center services companies with more than 21,500 clients in 180+ countries. Earlier this month, the company completed its merger with Service Express, enabling Park Place Technologies to expand its infrastructure services across traditional, cloud and AI-accelerated environments, while continuing to deliver its trusted, customer-first experience around the globe.

"The Park Place Technologies brand is a trusted brand and partner to organizations throughout the world seeking third-party support to manage their critical IT infrastructure," said Larry DeAngelis, vice president of marketing, Park Place Technologies. "As we prepare to introduce significant enhancements to our software and service portfolio, we are partnering with Feintuch Communications to help us expand our proactive public relations efforts for the U.S. market."

"Park Place Technologies is a renowned managed services provider with deep technical excellence and a second-to-none service orientation," said Henry Feintuch, president, Feintuch Communications. "Our team will work closely with the company's marketing team to further highlight the company's achievements and get the word out regarding its expanding portfolio of products and services."

The Feintuch Communications team has represented hundreds of IT organizations over the years including NCR, Secure-24, HDMI Licensing Administrator, Kramer ZeeVee, IEEE, American National Standards Institute and Legrand.
