Commenting on the growth in the mobile broadband business, Chairman and CEO Brian Cox stated, “Our mobile broadband channel continues to surpass internal expectations. Providing internet access to over 63,000 households, while achieving $5 million a month in recurring revenue, is a great start. We expect to be in all 50 states in the next 30-45 days and look to exponentially increase subscribers which should necessitate guidance upwards from our original target of 200,000 in 2022 as our mobile broadband channel continues to expand significantly.

“The Affordable Connectivity Program is an FCC benefit program that helps ensure that households have access to the broadband they need for work, school and healthcare. SurgePhone is licensed to offer this program in 14 states encompassing approximately 25 million qualified people. In Florida alone, it is estimated that 6.4 million households qualify. Making home internet affordable makes getting homework done, applying for jobs and receiving higher quality healthcare easier and more accessible to low-income households.”

SurgePhone is a licensed wireless provider capable of utilizing both the AT&T and T-Mobile nationwide network infrastructure to provide data and voice direct to consumers.

Preliminary revenues are estimates prior to the completion of the Company’s financial closing procedures and review procedures by its external auditors and, therefore, may be subject to adjustment when the actual results are available.
