

SurgePays Reports Third Quarter 2021 Financial Results and Provides Corporate Update

BARTLETT, Tenn., November 16, 2021 – SurgePays, Inc. (Nasdaq: SURG) (“SurgePays” or the “Company”), a fintech company providing essential financial services and products to the underbanked population and software applications to a number of industry verticals, today announces financial results for the third quarter ended September 30, 2021 and provides a corporate update.

Recent Corporate Highlights:

- Uplisted to the Nasdaq Capital Market and completed a $19.8 million public offering.
- Received approval from the Emergency Broadband Benefit (EBB) Program to provide discounted broadband services through the Company’s SurgePhone mobile virtual network operator (MVNO) subsidiary to qualified users in 14 states.
- Acquired Commander Communication, a provider of prepaid wireless payment products to approximately 500 convenience stores with intent to cross-sell other products and services into Commander’s customer base.
- Launched new custom private label gift card program for retail stores on the SurgePays fintech platform to provide additional convenience and loyalty opportunities for these locations’ customers
- Continued to progress towards an IPO of the Company’s enterprise software subsidiary LogicsIQ, Inc. (formerly Surge Logics, Inc.)
- Appointed Anthony P. Nuzzo, Jr. as CEO of LogicsIQ subsidiary

“The third quarter showed increasing revenue, margin expansion and a narrowing in the net loss. What I’m really excited about, though, is we are now trading on NASDAQ with a significant infusion of capital which should allow us to take advantage of multiple growth initiatives and better execute on things in our pipeline,” commented SurgePays CEO Brian Cox.

“Our core mission has not changed: We are focused on utilizing our blockchain fintech software platform to bring essential financial services and products to the underbanked communities by targeting the stores most frequented by these customers. To this end, and with our newly available capital, we plan to shift from independent sales reps to building out a nationwide in-house sales team to more aggressively engage convenience stores, bodegas and community stores in order to expand beyond the 8,000 stores on our network. We have already identified an additional 30,000 stores for targeting, and over time the addressable market is literally hundreds of thousands of additional stores that could be transacting on the SurgePays network,” Mr. Cox continued. “The combination of increasing the number of stores within our network and increasing average sales per store is really the ‘deep and wide’ approach at the heart of our growth strategy.”

“The capital generated from our recent NASDAQ listing allows us to greatly accelerate the rollout of the Emergency Broadband Benefit, or EBB, Program through our SurgePhone Wireless subsidiary. The successful limited launch in a handful of states suggests that a wider and more aggressive rollout can be the catalyst to our march towards profitability. We have ordered an additional 21,000 tablets to cover the remainder of 2021 and are aggressively putting more sales teams in place while exploring opportunities to expand our footprint beyond 14 states. We have already surpassed our short term goal of 15,000 EBB subscribers, ahead of schedule, which is a baseline of $750,000 per month in relatively higher-margin reoccurring revenue.

“Our LogicsIQ subsidiary had its strongest quarter ever in the third quarter and generated nearly $7.5 million in revenue. This is on the heels of its second-best quarter ever in the second quarter of 2021 when it delivered approximately $4.5 million in revenue. The leaner COVID periods allowed the LogicsIQ team to essentially strengthen the underlying engine of its software platform and allow for the successful development of applications to target new verticals outside the core legal industry.

“In summary, the uplist and capital raising process took a significant amount of our team’s bandwidth for almost a year. Now that this is finally behind us, our focus is on efficient deployment of our capital to achieve maximum revenue growth and reach profitability in the near term. We believe being a profitable blockchain fintech will significantly increase overall shareholder value. Our team is encouraged with the opportunities immediately ahead of us across all business segments. I would like to thank the shareholders for their loyalty, patience and for believing in the management team. I have enjoyed preparing this update, and based on my view of the near future, I will enjoy the next corporate update even more as we execute on our growth strategy,” Mr. Cox concluded.

Financial Results for Third Quarter 2021
