In October 2006 Hyatt Regency Washington partnered with Capitol Hill Group Ministry to adopt 15 families in the community who were in transition and in need of assistance during the 2006 holiday season. Employees of Hyatt Regency Washington started out by preparing and personally delivering Thanksgiving dinner to all 15 families on Wednesday, November 22nd. The same families were revisited on Wednesday, December 15th and received Christmas trees, ornaments and lights for their homes in preparation for the upcoming Christmas holiday. On Christmas Eve employees returned to deliver a ham dinner, complete with yams, mashed potatoes, vegetable casserole, and pecan pie for Christmas day along with gifts for each member of the family. In total Hyatt Regency Washington adopted more than 60 members of the community, including nearly 50 children, ranging in age from one to 16.

“We applaud and congratulate the Hyatt Regency Washington for their outstanding public service and star achievement in our industry,” said Emily Durso, president of the Hotel Association of Washington, D.C.

When asked about the awards presented, Hyatt Regency Washington’s general manager, Michael Smith stated, “The real joy comes from knowing we were able to help those in our own community and that employees were able to share in the joy of each family assisted. These events were heartwarming for all who participated.”
