

Global Promotion Offers Travelers More Than a Free Night From Official Sponsor of Free Time

CHICAGO (April 30, 2012) – Recognizing that people can be overworked and under-rested, Hyatt is calling for consumers to use their well-deserved vacation days with a new promotion offering a free night and added perks. Whether it's spending one more day of shopping or more time on the beach with family, guests can enjoy more than a free night from the official sponsor of free time.

Americans left 226 million vacation days unused in 2011, according to an Expedia survey. The average American worker earned 14 vacation days last year, but only took 12 of them. Why aren't people getting away? A recent study showed 89 percent of adults said Americans want to take more leisure trips, but didn't have the time or money to do so. With the Hyatt Free Time Promotion, consumers can now take the time they need, and spend it how they'd like.

Free Time Promotion Overview

Travelers who book by November 30 and stay at Hyatt hotels and resorts within the U.S., Canada and the Caribbean now through December 30 receive:

- One free night during their stay (minimum length of stay required, varies by property)
- Free daily breakfast for 2
- 2 p.m. late checkout*

Available to book beginning May 1, travelers who book by September 5 and stay at Hyatt hotels and resorts outside the U.S., Canada and the Caribbean from June 21 through September 8 receive:

- One free night during their stay (minimum length of stay required, varies by property)
