Dealers Can Now Showcase Used Car Inventory On Internet's Most Popular Automotive Site

PRNewswire
IRVINE, Calif.

For the first time, auto dealers can showcase their used car inventory on the Internet's most popular automotive site, kbb.com. Kelley Blue Book announced today the launch of Blue Book Classifieds, an all-new used car section of kbb.com. The new section was developed in partnership with The Cobalt Group (NASDAQ: CBLT), a leading provider of e-business products and services to the automotive industry. Cobalt provides the technology for Blue Book Classifieds, as well as used vehicle listings from its nationwide network of dealer clients.

"More new and used car shoppers visit Kelley Blue Book (kbb.com) than any place else on the Internet," said Stephen Henson, vice president of marketing and business development for Kelley Blue Book. "Blue Book Classifieds is the next step toward our goal of making vehicle transactions easier by bringing together consumers and dealers."

Each month, kbb.com attracts over four million unique visitors and delivers more than 24 million pricing reports on new and used vehicles. Visitors to Blue Book Classifieds can search for a used vehicle by ZIP code and other search parameters to see a list of matching vehicles in their area, detailed vehicle listings, and side-by-side vehicle comparisons. The customer can submit a purchase or test drive request to the dealer.

"Combining Cobalt's technology and network of dealer customers with Kelley Blue Book's tremendous online presence has resulted in a terrific new resource for consumers to find used vehicles on the Internet," said David Potts, vice president of business development for The Cobalt Group. "In a cooling economy dealers increasingly turn to pre-owned vehicles to drive sales. Blue Book Classifieds offer dealers a cost-effective means to advertise their pre-owned vehicles to customers who are already looking to buy, and it cements kbb.com's position as a leading site for pre-owned vehicles."

The launch of the Blue Book Classifieds on kbb.com will kick off with a free trial of the new service through July 31, 2001 for Cobalt dealer customers with used inventory listings. After the free trial, Blue Book Classifieds will be available for a fixed monthly subscription fee of $295.00 per dealership for unlimited used vehicle listings on kbb.com. Dealers that are not Cobalt customers can participate in Blue Book Classifieds by contacting Cobalt at (800) 909-8244 or by visiting <http://www.motorplace.com/>.
