

SOME LIKE IT REDHOT: FRANK'S AND CHUBA HUBBARD SETTLE 'SPICY OR SWEET' DEBATE

Survey says spicy sneaks the win for Canadians when it comes to chicken wings as Frank's RedHot® teams up with Canadian running back to share Super Bowl LVI recipes

LONDON, ON, Feb. 1, 2022 /CNW/ - Ahead of Super Bowl LVI, Frank's RedHot® sought to answer one of the most hotly debated game day food questions: "How do you like your wings, spicy or sweet?" In partnership with NFL rookie and Canadian native Chuba Hubbard of the Carolina Panthers, Frank's surveyed Canadians about their favourite game day eats and developed new recipes for the Big Game.

Almost a quarter of Canadians surveyed said chicken wings (23 per cent) were a top food choice for Super Bowl Sunday, second only to pizza (27 per cent). On the spicy versus sweet debate, nearly half (46 per cent) of Canadians were team spicy over team sweet (44 per cent). In another close call, drums (53 per cent) won out over flats (43 per cent). And to top it off, most Canadians (38 per cent) like wings au-naturel – or without dips. For "dressed" wings, ranch (34 per cent) beat blue cheese (18 per cent).

"Frank's-drenched Buffalo chicken wings are a gameday tradition – no dip for me either," said Chuba Hubbard, RB for the Carolina Panthers. "For Super Bowl LVI, I'm excited to team up with Frank's RedHot to share wing recipes just for Canadians and ask my fans how they like their wings."

To accompany the survey findings, Frank's and its team of flavour experts developed two go-to wing recipes – a spicy and sweet option – for Super Bowl LVI. To honour Canada's excitement for gameday, the recipes have an extra Canadian twist: the spicy recipe features spices hailing from the great Canadian Caesar and the sweet recipe features maple syrup. What's more Canadian than that?

"Canadians love to debate all things sports: the teams, the players, and the food. Whether you're team spicy or sweet, ranch or blue cheese, drums or flats, there's no debate that football and flavour are a winning combination," said Trevor Squires, Country Manager, Canada. "No matter how you enjoy the Super Bowl this year, we hope it includes chicken wings and Frank's RedHot."
