

M&T Bank Goes Pink for Breast Cancer Awareness Month

BUFFALO, N.Y.—The top floor of M&T Bank’s 21-story headquarters in downtown Buffalo will again be basked in pink light throughout the month of October to commemorate National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The pink lights aim to be a striking visual reminder of the importance of early breast cancer detection, diagnosis and treatment.

“Breast cancer is a tragic disease that affects families, friends, coworkers and millions of Americans every day,” said Michele Trolli, Executive Vice President/Chief Information Officer. “Turning a portion of the Buffalo skyline pink is a simple way M&T can take part in raising awareness and honoring the thousands of lives that breast cancer has touched.”

The pink lights are on every evening from Tuesday, Oct. 1 through Thursday, Oct. 31, 2013. In addition to pink lights, M&T Bank is also a substantial supporter of programs at Roswell Park Cancer Institute, donating more than $1.2 million over the past 10 years to help understand, prevent and cure cancer.

National Breast Cancer Awareness Month is a collaboration of national public service organizations, professional medical associations, and government agencies working together to promote breast cancer awareness, share information on the disease, and provide greater access to services.
