Past Winners Share Their Stories

Siba, a Standard Poodle, won Best in Show in 2020. "Siba captured hearts with her elegance and precision in the conformation ring, and at almost 10 years old, she's thriving in her new role," shared Paul Clas, Professional Handler. "After her Westminster victory, she's become a wonderful dam, producing several litters while enjoying life as owner Connie Unger's beloved companion. Pro Plan Sport Chicken & Rice has fueled her through championship competition and now supports her as a brood and family dog."

Buddy Holly, a Petit Basset Griffon Vendéen, captured Best in Show in 2023, making history as the first of his breed to win the prestigious title. "Buddy Holly's charm and spirit made him unforgettable in the conformation ring, and at 9 years old, he's enjoying retirement life in Ireland – relaxing on the couch and taking daily walks with his favorite 10-year-old companion, Grace," shared Janice Hayes, Professional Handler and co-owner. "Pro Plan helped fuel his championship success and supported the health and vitality that still keeps him active today. He continues to benefit from Pro Plan Veterinary Supplements FortiFlora daily for digestive support."

Wasabi, a Pekingese, won Best in Show in 2021 – David Fitzpatrick's second Westminster victory after winning with Malachy, also a Pekingese, in 2012. "At 8 years old, Wasabi remains a healthy, vibrant dog who loves company and enjoys his downtime," shared Fitzpatrick, two-time Westminster Best in Show-winning breeder-owner-handler who will serve as Best in Show judge for the 150th Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show. "Pro Plan Complete Essentials and Pro Plan Veterinary Supplements FortiFlora daily have kept him in peak condition. He's now an exceptional sire, already producing several champions including a Best in Show-winning son who carries on his legacy."
