

A NEW WAY TO SUBWAY®!

Subway introduces Signature Series in the Netherlands: a new line of chef-inspired Subs for a unique taste sensation

Amsterdam, March 6, 2024 - Subway, the world's largest sandwich chain known for its fresh and personalized sandwiches, is taking another step in the culinary experience with the introduction of the new Signature Series, eight creations specially designed by chefs. This ranks as the largest menu change in 58 years.

Today marks a historic moment with the introduction of the "Signature Series" at Subway, known as the sandwich brand where you can customize your Sub. The brand-new series introduces an innovative ordering experience for Subway guests by introducing unique, pre-selected Subs.

Carefully crafted flavor combinations

For Subway, taste and high-quality ingredients are central to this. With more than 50 years of experience, Subway knows exactly what its guests want. Subway constantly strives to develop new quality products based on these wishes, resulting in the eight craveable combinations in the Signature Series range. Signature Series is the start of a completely new and alternative way to order solid combinations of Subs where careful thought has gone into the flavour combinations of the ingredients to create an even more delicious experience.

Carrie Walsh, EMEA President at Subway, is delighted that the Signature Series are now available in the Netherlands. "With the Signature Series, we have listened to the wishes of our guests. Together with our chefs, we carefully considered the composition of these Subs to create the best combinations. The first guests who have already tried the Series Subs are very enthusiastic about the unique taste of the new Subs offering. These Subs are even more tasty, even fuller and even higher quality than guests have already come to expect from us. A great achievement and a huge global change for Subway."

Get rid of choice stress

With the introduction of the Signature Series, Subway is also taking away choice stress from its guests. Guests have reported experiencing this choice stress regularly during the ordering process when putting together their perfect Sub. The new Series line eliminates this choice stress and provides a carefree and unforgettable taste experience. In a world full of choices, Subway understands that sometimes people simply want to enjoy a flavourful sandwich without the hassle.
