

Sweden's Most Soothing TV Phenomenon Returns: The Great Moose Migration is Back

Latest News: The Great Moose Migration Starts Earlier

Broadcasts begin on Saturday, April 18 at 12:00 AM CET on SVT Play, with the live chat opening at 8:00 AM CET on SVT Play and in the Duo app. From 22 April to 8 May 2026, Sweden invites the world to slow down and tune into one of its most spellbinding natural spectacles: the annual moose migration, broadcast live. A cornerstone of the 'Slow TV' movement, this raw and unscripted event attracts millions of global viewers seeking a moment of peace and a deeper connection with the wild.

A Millennial Ritual Meets Modern Tech

Each spring, Sweden's moose population leaves the coastal forests of the UNESCO-listed High Coast \(Höga Kusten\) to trek towards summer pastures inland. The journey takes them across the mighty Ångermanälven river, a traditional migratory route chosen for its rich biodiversity.

Since 2019, the Swedish public broadcaster SVT has captured this odyssey in Den Stora Älgvandringen (The Great Moose Migration). With over 30 cameras and high-quality microphones for capturing natural soundscapes operating 24/7, the programme offers more than 500 hours of live footage. While the moose are the stars—with 70 spotted crossing the river in 2025 and 87 in 2024—viewers often enjoy "guest appearances" from bears, foxes, reindeer, otters, and various birds of prey.

The Science of Slow: Why We're Hooked

It isn't just entertainment; it's a tonic for the soul. A recent study (September 2025) by the Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences (SLU) found that watching the migration in a Slow TV format significantly reduces stress, calms the mind, and promotes mental recovery.

Key findings from the study include:

- Emotional Proximity: Despite being a digital experience, the programme fosters a genuine sense of closeness to nature.
- The Sound of Silence: Natural sounds—the wind, the rushing river, and birdsong—are vital for immersive relaxation.
- Authenticity: The lack of editing or narration provides a powerful sense of presence and "being there".
- Community: The live chat creates a space for viewers to learn together and engage in environmental discussions.

New for 2026: More Immersive Than Ever

The 2026 broadcast introduces enhanced features to bring viewers even closer to the action:

- Multi-Camera Viewing: Viewers can now watch several camera angles simultaneously or use "picture-in-picture" mode.
- Real-Time Tracking: An interactive map will show exactly which cameras are currently live.
- Interactive Community: The moderated live chat will be open daily from 8:00 am to 10:00 pm.

Experience the 'King of the Forest' in Person

With an estimated 300,000 moose roaming Sweden, there are many ways to experience these majestic creatures beyond the screen. Visit Sweden recommends choosing operators with the 'Nature's Best' national quality and sustainability ecotourism label, to ensure responsible and respectful wildlife experiences.

Top picks for a Swedish wildlife adventure include:

- Wild Sweden: Specialists in eco-responsible wildlife safaris.
- Nordic Discovery: certified ecotourism specialist based in Dalarna.
- Hide & See (Arctic Sweden): Guided by Micke Suorra, known as the "Moose Whisperer".
- Moose Garden (Jämtland): A sanctuary and educational centre where visitors can learn about the moose's role in the ecosystem.
- Skullaryd Moose Park (Småland): Family-friendly tractor-drawn tours through vast forest enclosures.

Practical Information

- Dates: 22 April – 8 May 2026. Note: Due to an exceptionally early spring in northern Sweden, SVT may bring the start date forward (as in 2025, when it began on 15 April).
- Where to watch: Live on svtplay.se.
- Pro-tip: The best sightings typically occur at dawn and dusk (Swedish time).
